

A grayscale chest X-ray showing the lungs and rib cage. Two overlapping rectangular bounding boxes are present: a pink one for lymphadenopathy and a yellow one for airspace opacification. The pink box is positioned higher and slightly to the right, while the yellow box is lower and more central. The text labels for each box are placed to the left of their respective boxes.

Lymphadenopathy 0.53

Airspace opacification 0.35